Chicago and North-Western Engineer Starritt and Fireman Coen have gone south on account of pool crews' testing.

Engineer Crowley is laying off.

Engineer I. W. Hager returned to work this morning on 51 and 52.

Engine 51 has gone to the shops for repairs.

Engineer Schoenberg and Fireman Davey returned from the south yesterday and are on the extra board.

Engineer Cole was on the switch-engine last night and is on the extra board today.

Engines 1402, 536 and 468, which have just come out of the Chicago shops, are to be sent to the new yards for storage.

Blacksmith's Helper Frank Lee returned to work this morning.

The practice, recently inaugurated by the road, of changing the headlights to a certain standard height from the ground, has met with the complete approval of the engineers. The new standard brings the light about where the number plate now is.

The new time cards for the Madison, Northern Wisconsin and Wisconsin Divisions will be out soon and it is expected that the time of the through trains will be changed far more than they have ever been during the past ten or twelve years.

Engine 19, upon which the improved wind shoot has been fitted, is expected to be ready for service about next Tuesday. It is seldom that an engine is overhauled so thoroughly and completely, and Engineer Charles Carpenter, who will take her on 544 and 521, will undoubtedly think he has been given a new engine.

Engineers Hamilton and Shaker double-headed 514 south this morning with engines 1016 and 177.

Engineer Walter Wilko, who has just returned from Chicago as a Bulletin, is busy receiving the congratulations of his friends and distributing cigars.

A bulletin, posted yesterday, warns all engineers and firemen running into Chicago to be careful not to create too much smoke as passengers are becoming more and more ready to enter complaints and city officials are taking photographs of the offending engines who are doing more than their share toward making Chicago a "bigger smoke."

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Engineer Harrow and Fireman Blain brought in 105 this morning.

Engineer Dowd and Fireman Ryerson were on 194 this morning.

Fireman Kneeling was on 106 and 7 with Engineer Harrison yesterday.

The freight departments of both roads are being deluged with requests for cars to accommodate the greatly increased traffic in ice and gravel.

MAXIM'S NOISELESS GUN

Patents having been obtained on it in 24 countries, Itham Percy Maxim gave a demonstration and explanation recently of his silencing device for rifles before a large number of representatives of newspapers and scientific publications. By the use of a sandbag target the inventor made a series of experiments by firing a variety of rifles, ranging in power from a 22 caliber up to the new Springfield 30 caliber military rifle. They were fired both with and without the "silencer," and the spectators—or perhaps it might be better to say auditors—marveled at the effect of the little device. It is said scientific tests show that 80 per cent of the noise of explosion is eliminated.

The "silencer" is a metal tube about seven inches long and an inch and a quarter in diameter, which can be fastened quickly to the end of a rifle barrel which has been provided with a thread for that purpose. Itham those who did not know Mr. Maxim's secret had an idea there was a valve in the "silencer" which stopped the rapid escape of the gases from the end of the barrel. It is these gases which cause the noise in firing.

The great advantage of the device, according to the promoters, lies in the fact that in warfare the commands of officers can be heard and the confusion of discharging guns will be eliminated. In hunting and target practice the elimination of the loud reports is of distinct advantage, and it is declared the device also lessens the recoil.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

TREADLE TO TOWN.

The New Cycle-Skate for the Road Is Now Very Much in Evidence.

With the present rage for roller-skating on rinks, it is not surprising that the skate for use on the road should be in evidence. It will be remembered that during the roller-skating boom of some 12 years or so ago a cycle-skate was put on the market. This differed, however, from the present form, inasmuch as progress was made by gliding in the fashion of the skater. The new skate is worked by treadles, much as treadle sewing machines and such like are operated.

AID TO MEDICAL STUDENTS.

Projectoscope Throws Operations on Screen by Use of Lens—Moving Pictures Can Be Secured.

As a view of all the intricate details of a surgical operation can be obtained only from a position just above the field of operation itself, the provisions for demonstrating operations to medical students in a clinic are woefully inadequate. This position is occupied by the surgeon and his immediate assistants, and the student can see very little unless he be one of the few allowed to crowd about the table, where he is an inconvenience to those who are working.

To remedy this fault a projectoscope has been designed which will throw a view of the operation from directly above it, onto a plate-glass screen forming a partition between the operating room and the space reserved for seating the students. This is accomplished by employing a large lens and a surface mirror, which are fastened to a fixture about 4½ feet above the patient. Around the mirror is a glass shield five feet in diameter, the outer edge of which is studded with lights arranged to provide a uniform, brilliant illumination without any shadows.

field are transmitted, without refraction, by a prism into an enlarging camera, which is horizontally suspended, and focused on the vertical screen. Moving pictures of an operation can be secured by attaching a moving-picture machine to the apparatus. By this means an operation can be reproduced again and again for teaching purposes in medical colleges, or it can be thus reproduced in a physician's office, where he can study it at leisure, slowly familiarizing himself with every detail.

DEVICE FOR TESTING EGGS.

An Ingenious Invention Determines Whether Eggs Are Fresh or Stale.

A well-known test for eggs consists in placing the eggs in water, when the bad ones will float, but of the eggs that sink there is no way of determining which are the fresher ones and how much less stale one may be than another. A very ingenious device has recently been invented which enables one to note the slightest variations in the eggs. The device consists of an aluminum air chamber comprising a main body portion and a stem. The latter is graduated, while at the bottom of the body portion are two spring-wire loops shaped to engage and hold an egg. The device with the egg attached thereto is placed in water and will sink to a depth depending upon the specific gravity of the egg. The freshest and best eggs sink the stem down until the water is on a level with the XX mark. Even if the egg registers 0 it shows that the egg is quite fresh and still has sufficient food strength to hatch a live chick. Mark 4 registers the limit of fair eating, while 12 shows that decomposition has set in. Not only is the tester valuable in the kitchen, but to the chicken raisers as well, as it tells how much nutriment there is in the egg for the support of life in the chick, and during incubation it shows the progress of evaporation in the incubator as compared to normal hygienic conditions as found in the eggs under the hen.

Egg Testing Device.

The inventor of this egg tester is Dr. E. C. Waldorf of Buffalo, N. Y.

Uniform Sparking Plug.

Standardization of sparking plugs for automobiles has been attempted by the American Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers. The mechanical branch of this association for some time has been working on proposed standards for the dimensions. The form now agreed upon has a seven-eighths-inch diameter of thread, 18 pitch, a shouldered or flanged seat one and one-eighth inch in diameter, a minimum length below the shoulder of one-half inch, and a hexagon head seven-eighths inch across the flats.

Next to marrying a titled foreigner, a girl's highest ambition is to become the wife of somebody who is entitled to wear a uniform.

MODERN HIP VAN WINKLE PARDONED FROM A LIFE SENTENCE AFTER TWENTY YEARS IN PRISON.

Alexander Killen as he was stepping into an automobile in front of the jail in the world which has changed so much since he saw it last.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Is this all a dream? Have I been sleeping for 20 years? With this query on his lips and wonder in his mind, Alexander Killen stepped from the Western penitentiary into an automobile, quite incongruous to his mind. It is impossible for a person who has been in touch with the world to realize the stupendous change that has taken place during the last two decades. Murders of the ago when Killen entered the Western penitentiary have now been pushed back into the annals of ancient history. In their stead have come such means of travel, methods of communication and structures as to dazzle his eyes and confuse his brain.

Lingering fresh in his memory are pictures of the world as it appeared when he passed through the prison doors just 19 years, 4 months and 2 days ago. Walking along the streets, these pictures are contrasted with present wonders hard to comprehend.

First and probably the most confusing is the comparison of the modern automobile with the antique horse car. It was the latter conveyance that carried him to the penitentiary, his home, as he thought, for the rest of his life. Never did he expect to take another ride in any conveyance.

When he learned of his pardon the old horse car loomed up before him as the conveyance that would carry him back to the city. Instead, however, he left the institution in a modern auto, which spluttered and rattled and whirled him back in a few minutes. With big tears standing in his eyes and dropping from his lashes he spoke of the "two hours' ride to the penitentiary" and how he had wished it were many hours longer.

"But what has happened to the old West Union building at Fifth avenue and Wood street?" Killen asked. "That was the largest building in Pittsburg and the largest building he had seen until yesterday morning. He stood and stared straight up at the Farmers' bank building. He became dizzy and murmured some words under his breath.

"Yes, I have been asleep. No, I have been dead to the progress and possibilities of man's mind," he finally said.

"These buildings, these street cars, automobiles, and in fact most everything about me now were beyond the imagination 20 years ago."

"What was your idea of these things as you read of them or had them explained to you in the prison?"

"I cannot tell. I, of course, saw some pictures in magazines and other periodicals, but it was impossible for a man to get anything like a clear idea of their appearance."

While Killen was talking an auto went speeding down Fifth avenue and the driver did not check the speed until within a few feet of a car standing at the corner. It was easy enough to bring the machine to a dead stop in ample time for safety, but Killen did not know that. Throwing up his hands he let out a cry of warning. Then he slunk back into the crowd abashed by his blunder.

Killen was tried and convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of Mrs. Mary Rudert, wife of Paul Rudert, at Tarentum the evening of December 23, 1888, and sentenced to be hanged. Through the efforts of Rev. Dr. E. R. Donohoe the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Four men went into the jewelry store conducted by Rudert and his wife in Tarentum just as they were about to close for the day. They seized two trays of jewelry and started for the door, when Mrs. Rudert interfered and was shot through the head while grappling with one of the robbers.

After he had seen the wonders of a modern city he was willing to talk about the crime of which he was accused.

"It was about 6 o'clock on the evening of December 23, 1888," he said, "that I was sitting in my shanty boat on the bank of the Allegheny river. This was on the Amsterdam side, about one and a half miles below Tarentum, where the murder occurred. Two men called me from the boat house and wanted a row boat. I did not know the fellows very well. One was named Griffith and he lived somewhere on Penn avenue, near the point. The other fellow I did not know so well.

"I let them have the boat. They said they wanted to cross the river, at least it was my impression that they wanted to cross the river, but they started, as I thought, down the stream. I paid very little attention to them and I learned later that they went up stream. It was quite a while after that when they returned. I don't just know the hour. They had broken one of the oars and damaged the boat.

"I told them the damage would cost me several dollars to repair. They said they had no money but offered me a watch, chain and a bracelet. I accepted this and gave the matter no more thought until I learned of the robbery and murder. I had little difficulty in connecting the links of the affair and hid the jewelry that had been given me.

"It was later ascertained that my boat had played a part in the case and I was arrested. I can hardly explain why, but I did not tell what had occurred between me and the two men nor did I give the officers the name of the man I knew. I, however, did tell them where the jewelry could be found and this seemed to clinch the evidence against me.

"Yes, I know now that my fate would have been very different had I not withheld a part of my story until it was too late. Then I had an opportunity to escape from the jail before my trial was held but deliberately refused. I had been in the jail here but a short time when I was placed in a cell adjoining that occupied by Fitzsimmons, who was held on the charge of killing Detective Glickson. Fitzsimmons sawed two bars from the window and called me to get out with him. I refused to go.

"The following day when his escape was discovered, the officers declared that he could not have crawled through so small a hole. I insisted that he could and did go through it. To prove my point, I got through in the presence of the officers and I was a larger man than Fitzsimmons. I never tried to get away or in any way interfere with the officers until I found that I was going to bear the entire brunt. It was then too late, and I was convicted of murder in the first degree.

"The death warrant was signed by two governors, but the efforts of my friends succeeded in obtaining commutation of sentence and I was sent to the penitentiary for life. Numerous attempts have been made to obtain my pardon, but to no avail. The last strenuous effort was prior to the successful one and was made about seven years ago.

"I had about given up hope until I received several letters from friends and people who knew something of the case. Letters from Judge Magee, Rev. Dr. Donohoe and Judge McKonrue had much to do with my pardon. Though Dr. Donohoe died several years ago, he wrote a letter before his death that prompted the last and successful movement for my release.

"The failure of the former attempts was due largely to the opposition made by Paul Rudert, husband of the woman who was murdered. He opposed every movement in my favor from the beginning."

Killen's pardon was taken up in earnest when M. P. Hughes and M. J. Connelly called at the penitentiary for the purpose of instituting steps for the pardon of former Congressman William A. Martin. Martin and Killen were close friends and the life man expressed a desire to have a talk with the warden. They took up his case and secured his pardon.

Useful Work of Blacksnakes.
There are many farmers in this country who are in love with the blacksnakes which they have on their places and believe the reptiles are better than any cats or dogs in removing the rats and mice from the premises. It is a well known fact that the snakes destroy hundreds of pests in a season, and for this reason they are liked by the farmers. TY COBB AND SAM CRAWFORD OF THE DETROIT TIGERS.

Probably no two outfielders in the game this year will be more closely watched than Sam Crawford and Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers. With one ranked highest in hitting of all American league regulars last season and the other well up in the averages, Detroit fans have come to look upon them as sure-hit deliverers when they come to the plate, the most feared of sluggers.
While both have done their share toward putting Detroit at the top of the percentage column at the start of the season, the average do not look as they did at the close of the 1908 season. After seven games had been played in the American this season, Crawford had a batting average of but .241, while Cobb was 10 points lower with .231.
Will these sluggers hit as they did in previous seasons? The answer should be, yes, for a slump at the opening of the season is often noticeable among heavy hitters. It is the players who end up farther down in the averages who usually take the high honors at the start. Whatever may be the ranking of these two players at the end of the season, it is certain that upon their showing to a great extent depends the pennant chances of Detroit.

A PREMIER GOLFIAC.

It is scarcely possible to recognize in this typical American golf enthusiast the man who holds almost supreme power in dictating the foreign relations of the United States. Secretary of State Philander C. Knox enjoys a game of golf thoroughly and is an expert player. When he goes to the game he attacks it with the same vigor that has dominated his career throughout. He dresses for it from shoe to hat and enters into it with all his soul.

This is a correct report of the circulation of the Janesville Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazette for April, 1909, and represents the actual number of papers printed and circulated.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

J. A. Fagan, writing for the May Atlantic on the topic, "A Road to Mind to the Employer's Business," has this to say about a common experience: "A young man enters the service of a wholesale manufacturing concern. The superintendent informs him that if he takes an interest in the business the business will take an interest in him. After the boy has become acquainted with the routine of his office work he begins to look around him a little. During the busy hours he steps into the shipping room or the warehouse and gives a little assistance here and there. "He is permitted to do this for a day or two, but before long a man steps up to him, and says, 'What are you doing here? If the boss wants to hire any more help, let him do so. Don't you understand that you are probably taking the bread and butter away from some hard-up fellow, who is out of employment and who would be likely to get a job if you would stay where you belong? Go back to the office and attend to your own business, or the union will get after you.' The boy suddenly awakes to the situation. "He has to choose between the stars of his fellows and what he considers to be his duty to his employer. He is a good-natured young fellow, and his companions soon carry him off his feet. Later, when the boss asks him why he does not take more interest in the business, he tells his story, and only too often the superintendent is compelled to leave him to his fate, for the business is found to be permeated with this spirit from collar to garret."

This little incident, so true to conditions which have long existed in industrial centers, where organized labor is in control, furnishes one of the strongest arguments for the open shop and unrestricted production, for it has to do with the new generation representing a round million of young men, eager for the fray and entitled to an open field and fair chance.

To the man past middle life with habits of thought and action so thoroughly established that time and energy is wasted in attempting to change them, it makes but little difference, for he has been so long under the dictation of leadership that loyalty to the union is of supreme importance, but to the young man, fired with ambition, and filled with hope, the situation is different.

He has been taught to believe that the vacancies in the world's great work-shop are up near the top, and no enters the arena with determination of purpose to work his way up the ladder into the clear atmosphere of independence.

Common sense, ordinary intelligence and the instincts of humanity, all suggest that the boy is entitled to every encouragement, but instead he is confronted with a stone wall of opposition, before his career is fully launched, and his ambition to become a climber is soon lost in the occupation of trudging at the rear end of the procession.

The barrier which organized labor places across the gateway of the great army of young men who seek to enter the industrial field is not an imaginary barrier. It is so intensely real that the destiny of many a young man has been ruined at the starting point.

The average boy who graduates from the grades faces life with no

well-defined purpose. He very naturally turns to his father's calling to find, in many instances, that only a limited number of apprentices are permitted to learn the trade. Then he drifts into other channels to discover that restrictions govern to a large extent, and when a foothold is finally gained he becomes a unit in the army of time-servers who work by the clock.

These conditions, so common that they are readily recognized, are responsible for the shortage of young men competent to assume positions of trust and responsibility which are constantly arising in the industrial world. They not only work an injustice to the boy, but are a handicap to business as well, and the time will come when the intelligence of the age will demand the betterment of some of the large manufacturing concerns, like the Baldwin Locomotive works, have taken matters into their own hands by establishing training schools in their plants for the trade education of the boys in their employ.

Every facility is offered to perfect the boys as expert workmen in some branch of the business, and when their apprenticeship closes they are competent for the work, and from their ranks are recruited the heads of departments. The company is never compelled to go outside to find men to fill good positions, because it has educated its own boys for just this kind of work.

If this policy was generally adopted American factories would be manned and operated by American workmen and the demand for expert workmen from the old world would soon cease.

A given number of cigars, made by a skillful workman, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. may constitute a day's work from the standpoint of organized labor, or a given number of brick or lathe or a hundred other things may be handled in the same short workday and meet the requirements of the same arbitrary tribunal, but this restriction of output is an injustice to the economic world and a life-long injury to the boy who is compelled to face life from such environments.

The arbitrary eight-hour workday, enforced as it is by the government, as well as by organized labor, is of the same character, and its influence is harmful and demoralizing.

When the clock becomes the regulating ambition ceases, and when ambition does the man soon becomes a machine.

Much has been said about the captain of industry, and young men are encouraged to aim high and capture a captaincy, but the fact is often overlooked that between the great army of toilers, who struggle for existence, and the little company of men who stand at the top, is a multitude of contented prosperous people, representing more than half the nation's population, representing the farm, the office, the store, the professions, and the long line of small manufacturers who contribute so largely to general prosperity.

These people live in an atmosphere where ambition is untrammeled, and where daylight and darkness mark the periods of time. They take time to live, never forgetting the good of success, for which they started.

Fifty-four per cent of the voters of America are taxpayers. These men know nothing about a government eight-hour work-day, and the only restriction placed upon output is in answer to the demand of mental and physical ability.

They never clamor for the equal distribution of property, for time is fully occupied in improving opportunities and winning the prizes which lie the way.

The ranks of this prosperous and happy contingency are filling up every year by intelligent toilers who are learning by observation that the way to the front is the open way, free from hindrance or restriction.

BEET-ROOT SUGAR PRODUCTION

"Much interesting information as to the scope of the beet-root sugar industry in the United States is contained in a report submitted by the secretary of agriculture in response to a resolution of inquiry adopted by the senate on April 7. It appears from this report that the beet-root sugar factories in the country increased from six, with facilities for handling 4,000 tons of beets per day in 1893, to 64, with a daily capacity of 50,000 tons, in 1908.

"The value to farming interests of this increase in the manufacture of beet sugar is forcibly illustrated. In 1898 the growers produced 264,000 tons of beets for which they received a total of $1,564,000. In 1908—only eight years later—the output had risen to 4,226,000 tons, bringing a return of $21,601,000—a twelvefold increase in what must be regarded as a very brief period in the expansion of agricultural industry.

"Secretary Wilson states that in twelve years the sugar factories of the country have paid out $121,000,000 for beets and that the capital invested in buildings, machinery, etc., for this form of sugar production amounts to about $70,000,000, not counting the money investments of factory owners in farm lands, irrigation work and the like. These figures show that the beet sugar industry in the United States is no longer in the experimental stage.

"The possibilities of the enterprise are practically without limit if we are to accept Secretary Wilson's estimates. He holds that there are in the United States at least 274,000,000 acres of land adapted to beet culture, and that if only one acre out of every 200 of that area were planted in beets the yearly crop would yield as much sugar as we now import from foreign sources. Estimating the world's total sugar crop at 15,000, 000 tons per year, Mr. Wilson contends that with proper attention to irrigation, rotation of crops, etc., the lands in the United States available for beet culture would produce an annual yield far in excess of the world's output.

"Whether Secretary Wilson's report has been called out at this time by the senate resolution for its possible effect in shaping tariff schedules in the pending tariff bill is, of course, a matter of conjecture."

This fact, brought out by the Wall Street Journal, will satisfy beet-growers and factories that the tariff on sugar should not be disturbed, and the American people will continue to pay $140,000,000 a year duty on the imported sugar. "The tariff is a local issue."

Heart to Heart Talks.

TIT FOR TAT

There is richness: A New York city health inspector went to a Chenango county farm and prepared his inspector's report, giving the farm 65 per cent on a scale of 100. The defects pointed out were these: The barn windows had not been properly washed, the inside walls of the stable were not whitewashed, horses were kept in the same barn with the cows, the cows had not been clipped, and their udders had not been regularly washed with warm water before milking.

Well—The farmer was getting less than 3 cents a quart for his milk out of which to pay a high feed bill. He was obliged to get up before daylight every morning to do the milking. He thought over the inspector's report and concluded he had a reply ready.

Therefore he sent a letter to the health department in which he gave the city of New York a sanitary condition of 23 per cent on a scale of 100. These are some of the things he suggested in his report: The tearing down of rickety tenements and fire traps where the light of heaven never enters and fresh air is a stranger.

The providing of decent living quarters for the human beings that live in cellars.

The cleansing and disinfecting of places where the poor are compelled to labor and whitewashing the same.

The feeding of thousands of school children who go breakfastless to school or supperless to bed.

The overhauling of the sewer system.

Making the city as sanitary, as well lighted and ventilated for human beings as the Chenango county barns are for cows.

That was what J. B. Brown, farmer of Chenango, wrote to the health department.

In a further communication to the newspapers Mr. Brown said he would be glad to bathe his cows, build a separate horse stable, calculate his barn, just as he would be glad to put hot water heat and electric light in his house, have a mahogany piano, hardwood floors, Persian rugs and an automobile—if somebody would pay him 10 cents instead of 2½ cents for his milk.

There is a lot of common sense as well as grin in Farmer Brown's retort.

Whatever the need of better sanitary conditions on dairy farms, there is no excuse for the insanitary tenement shacks of the large cities.

What Kind of an "Office."

Once upon a time a child who was asked on an examination paper to define a mountain range, replied: "A large-sized cook stove." The same method of reasoning seems to go with older growth. A recent examination paper at the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale contained the question, "What is the office of the gastric juice?" And the answer on one paper read: "The stomach."—Everybody's Magazine.

MARVEL FLOUR DEMONSTRATION

Will Be Continued Another Week

AT 109 WEST MILWAUKEE STREET

OWING to the interest manifested by the housewives of Janesville in the unbleached MARVEL FLOUR, the Listman Milling Co. have been prevailed upon to continue their demonstration for another week. Mrs. Hensel, the demonstrator, solicits questions as to why Marvel Flour possesses such superior qualities, and will answer them frankly and interestingly.

PROGRAM FOR MONDAY

The demonstration of biscuits will be repeated, as there were so few who got to see and taste them last Monday and Tuesday. There will also be a demonstration of spice cake at 4:30 Monday. Biscuit will be served with jam, and tea, coffee, cocoa and other delicacies will be served during the entire demonstration.

The U. S. Government through its Expert Pure Food Department has made a ruling that all flour bleached is in direct violation of the National Pure Food Laws, and it has served a general notice that all flour now made after a bleaching process (the kind generally in use) must conform to the Pure Food requirements (be unbleached), within a short time or it will not be permitted sold.

MARVEL FLOUR stands alone. It never has been bleached and is absolutely Pure.

This afternoon and evening, after 1:30, there will be a demonstration of delicious fruit doughnuts and a variety of dainties.
Demonstrations from 2:30 to 5, beginning Monday. This demonstration and entertainment is entirely free.

USEFUL BROOMHOLDER

Can Be Attached to Doors and Is Not in the Way.

It is said that a new broom sweeps clean, so it is to the advantage of broom-wielders to keep that implement new or in good condition as long as they can. To help them in this a Chicago woman has devised a broomholder the value of which only the busy housewife can appreciate, but she will do so thoroughly. The holder consists of two joined parts, shaped like a broom, that open and close like a book. A removable top covers the two. One part of the device is fastened to the wall or the back of a door, and proper, and by catching a few strands of hair between the parts before they are joined the whole will be kept in place. Many a valuable comb, jewel-studded or otherwise costly, has been lost through working its way out of the hair and falling to the ground or floor unheeded. With this new device its use there will be no danger of such misfortune and My Lady may wear the most costly hair ornament without fear.

COMB THAT WON'T FALL OUT

Removable Plate, When Fastened, Holds It in the Hair.

There is no longer any reason for women losing their backaches. A Massachusetts man has devised a comb that "stays put" and will not come out unless the hair comes off, so women with detachable pins must anchor it securely. This comb is made in two parts, one of which is a plate with apertures at the top, and the other a plate, on which is the arching, the gold or silver mounting or whatever there is of ornamentation. This plate has projections on it that fit into the apertures in the top of the comb

A GATE FOR BEDS

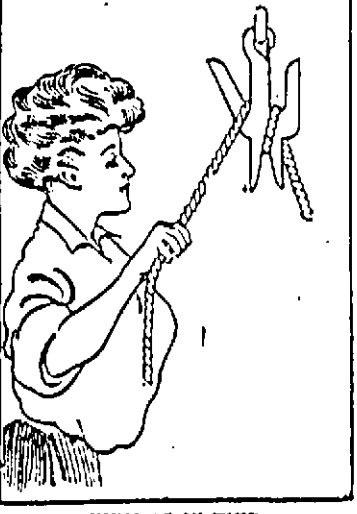

Crossbars Can Be Closed Up When Not in Use.

No crib is required in households which are equipped with one of the best-gates recently invented by two Connecticut men. Nor need adults worry about tumbling out on the floor during nightmares. The gate is of metal and is composed of crossbars pivoted at their points of intersection so that the whole can be stretched out to the length of a bed or folded up in a small compass at the head or foot. In the center is a vertical bar to hold the gate against outward movement. Parents who have small children sleeping with them will find the

NOVEL ROPE-FASTENER

Arrangements of Slots Makes Knots Unnecessary.

No knots are needed with the novel and effective rope fastener that has just been patented. Therefore, as there is nothing to tie up or untie, its use means a big saving of time. The fastener is shaped like a letter "W" with an inverted "V" on the bottom. This makes three slots, two above and one below, and to fasten a rope the latter is brought over one of the upper slots, down the lower one and up again over the other arm of the W. Wound over the fastener in this way the rope cannot slip, but will hold its position as firmly as if tied. This device has a spring hook at the apex of the middle section of the W by which it can be attached to any projection. The fastener will be found very useful on sailboats or for hanging up clothes lines. The average person ties a knot that requires much time and patience to untie. With this fastener he is saved the trouble of making and opening weird knots.

NO CRIBS ARE NEEDED.

contrivance a great convenience. This device means a considerable saving in money to families who do not have space for little cribs to make a crib a pretty and more or less permanent investment. A crib is of no use after a child is old enough to sleep without an crib, and the gate here described solves the problem of how to get along without them—without cribs, that is.

Worth Choosing.

"In choosing his men," said the Sab-bath-school superintendent, "Gideon did not select those who laid aside their arms and throw themselves down to drink. He took those who watched with one eye and drank with the other."

Value of Sun Bath.

A sun bath is of more value to health than much warming by the fire.

That's So.

"The time, the place, and the girl. How seldom we see them together." "And another rare combination is the man, the scheme, and the coin."—Illustrated Bits.

His Query.

A foreigner, watching a young kitten playing with its mother, asked of his friend: "What you so ent call von he is a little pup?"

MODERN WAY OF LIVING

Has a Tendency to Weaken the Strongest.

One hundred years ago there was less kidney trouble than there is today.

The worry, hurry, and overwork of modern living doubles the work of the kidneys, wears and weakens them until unable to properly do their duty of filtering the poisons from the blood. As a result the whole system runs down.

Need the slightest symptom of kidney trouble—the first backache, the first irregularity of the urine. It may be the forerunner of dangerous disease. You can cure yourself quickly with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Read the experience of a Janesville citizen.

Chas. W. Allen, living in Janesville, Wis., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and can recommend them as a good kidney and backache remedy and one that can be relied upon. I suffered from kidney trouble for a long time, and although I used different preparations, I received no relief. Finally I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from the People's Drug Co. and began their use. In a few days my trouble left and it has never returned."

It Costs You But One Cent Per Running Inch to Build Your House or Foundation of STANDARD HOLLOW CONCRETE BUILDING BLOCKS

This price is lower per running foot than any other block in Janesville.

Yet we give you a block that has a WATERPROOF FACE making it proof against moisture, discoloring and a more substantial block.

It is made of better materials than any other blocks, because our sand is graded and of particularly fine quality, because our gravel is graded up to one inch in size, because they are made on a "face-down" machine.

Then, too, it has a prettier face than most blocks, and other advantages which we will be glad to tell you about for the asking. Drop us a card, telephone or call.

HOUSE HAD BEEN MOVED

BUT DEPARTMENT WAS CALLED TO OLD ADDRESS

Gasoline Stove at Residence on North

Locust Street Caused Considerable Trouble Yesterday.

A frantic telephone call to the West Side fire station yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock sent that company hurrying to 211 Wall street under the impression that the house was burning down. When the engine arrived they could find no blaze and the firemen thought that they had been the victims of some fool joker until someone happened to think of the new system of numbering the houses and remembering where the original house at 211 Wall had been moved, the department hurried to North Locust street, where they found the blaze already half extinguished. A gasoline stove had caused the trouble without doing much danger to the building.

Water Meter Hammer.

There is an enormous fortune, with the blessing of suffering humanity, waiting for the man who invents a water meter that will not hammer through the pipes of a house when a bath tub faucet is running.—New York Press.

When a man tells his wife of an increase in his wages she doesn't burst out in congratulations; she has an instantaneous look in her eyes, as if calculating how many yards it will take for a dress she had hitherto felt that she couldn't afford.—Athletic Globe.

What a Woman Will Not Do

There is nothing a woman would not do to retain her beauty. She might be fully as ready in preserving her good hair. It is the most delicate and the most important part of her adornment.

It is the only part of her body that she can control. At all druggists and dentists.
